EAST/WEST

"Pleasure can be mystical," says cosmopolitan Brook Morales, a serious student of sensuality and Eastern ways. This city girl has traveled far from her native New York to study tantric yoga and shiatsu massage, those most voluptuous of Oriental arts and sciences.

PHOTOGRAPHS BY J. STEPHEN HICKS

Brook responds firmly to those who question her way of life: "I'm 23 and have means enough to pursue my interest in physical pleasure. I'm learning to listen to my body—and to other people's."

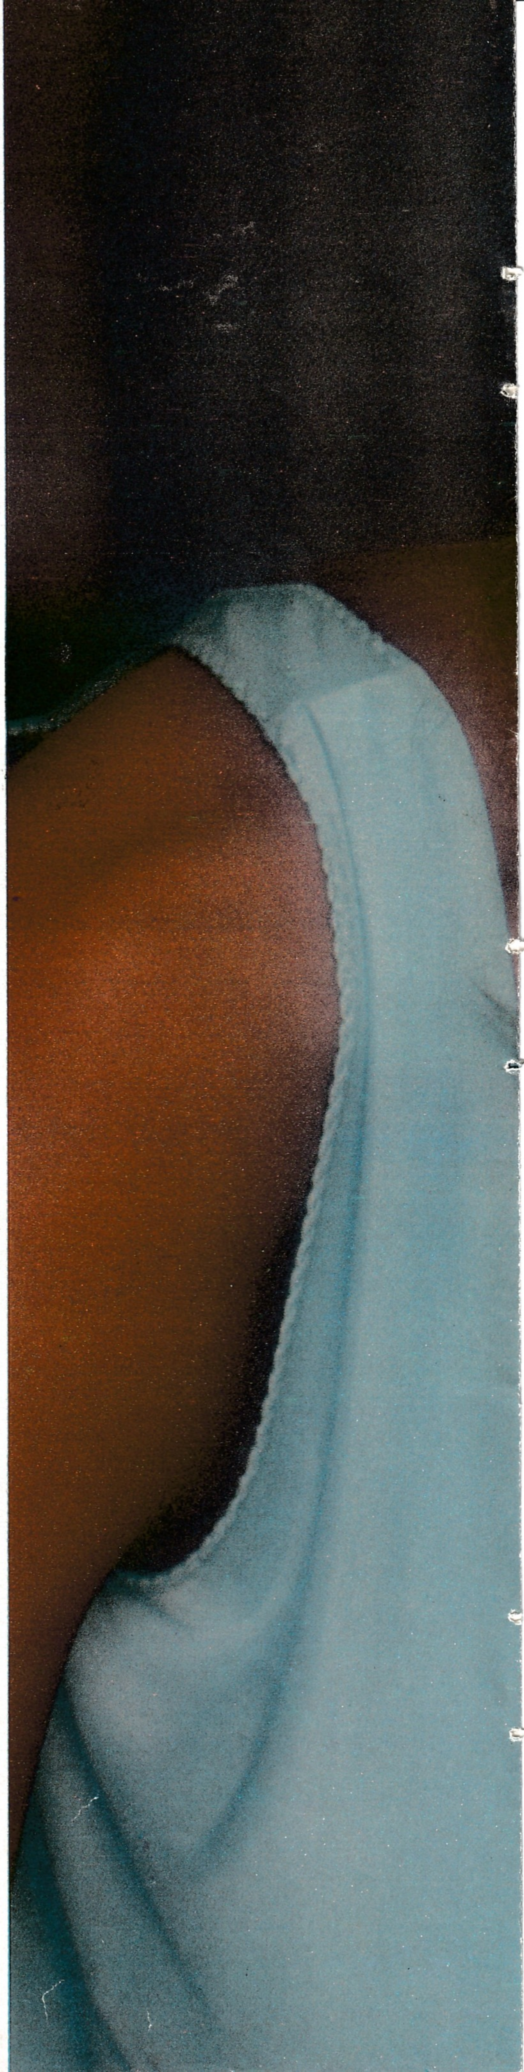
Brook's parents were comfortable in New York's theatrical circles when she was growing up. "They taught me that all philosophies—Eastern and Western—are essentially good," she says, "so I've borrowed the best from each." Brook feels her exposure to yoga and meditation make her a relaxed and flexible lover. "I believe that my fingertips have magic in them. I like to pass that power on to my lover . . . through my touch."

❛I have means enough to pursue physical pleasure. I'm learning to listen to my body.❜

She will pursue a man in the most sophisticated, or Western, of ways, but Brook says, "Once we're alone I hold nothing back—I'm open to all that passion can offer."

PHYLISS

“I can be sweet, quiet, and gentle one minute, then turn into a screaming Tasmanian devil the next!”



PLACES IN THE HEART

Brown-eyed Phyliss Partin, our July Pet of the Month, is nothing if not loyal. This tawny 23-year-old's only serious career goal is taking care of the man she loves. "This is the only secure, committed relationship I'm capable of having with anyone. I grew up in a foster home after my parents divorced, and both remarried other people. My family is very large but also very spread out."

PHOTOGRAPHS BY EARL MILLER

"That's why having one steady, stable person to love is so important to me." So is a stable place. "During my teenage years in Miami there was lots of tension between Cubans and Americans, with race riots and lots of crime. The people there were scared and cold and bitter." Ironically, she finds more warmth now in the cooler climes of San Francisco, where she'd love to live forever.

Still, when her present companion moves to Europe next year for his job, she'll take that streetcar named desire and go with him.

"I'll really miss being able to go to the ocean," she laments. "I just love to swim and water-ski and scuba dive!" Once, Phyliss dared to go snorkeling nude at a public beach. Suddenly, she realized that several other divers were gaping rather goggle-eyed at her 34-22-34-inch underwater treasures.

Water is her natural habitat, she claims; accordingly, a bubble bath for two is her favorite form of love play. Other times, she's not so loving. "I'm a schizy Gemini who goes from being sweet and tender one minute to a screaming Tasmanian devil the next!"

This volatile half-Irish, half-Cherokee blend prefers the challenge of equally fiery men. "Overwhelming and aggressive guys like Clint Eastwood," she jokes, "would definitely make my day!" Two things that don't are timid men and slow drivers.

"One time a cop stopped me for passing in a no-passing zone. But after a few minutes in his front seat, he let me off with just a warning. . . ." And a few passes of his own, no doubt.

BLESSINGS NOT DISGUISED

PHOTOGRAPHS BY J. STEPHEN HICKS

According to Dru Diamond, being blessed with a spectacular 36DD-24-35-inch figure can occasionally be a curse. "Some men adore my body without really knowing my mind—even though I'm also loving and giving, and have lots of personality and talent," says this positive-thinking Taurus, who's unabashedly bullish on herself.

"Someday I would like to be involved in an "Endless Love" kind of affair, where the passion is overwhelming and lasts forever."

Just 22, she's worked as a stylist, an artist, a costume designer, and a dancer. But currently she's helping other fledgling performers as a talent-agency receptionist.

"That's just to get my foot in the door. I'm hoping Hollywood will discover me just like Penthouse has—and soon!"

Her other fantasy is to "someday be involved in an "Endless Love" kind of affair, where the passion is overwhelming and lasts forever."

Her first affair was a hot one. "We first made love in his car—at a 24-hour-restaurant parking lot in the pouring rain!"

"I did things that night I'd never done before, but now I'm looking for someone who'll make it seem like kid stuff."

‘Ellen acted as mentor and boldly showed Marsha just what the corporate body liked and just how to do it. . . . Marsha watched and responded, her fingers eagerly exploring her own satiny smoothness.’

BUSINESS AND PLEASURE

The ice was broken, an executive decision was made. Ellen was well-suited in white lace, but she was by no means an innocent. Being in the red was Marsha's preference when business turned to pleasure. As business colleagues, they were both at the top of their professions, but they rarely found time to dally with the men of their choice. They were both keenly aware of one another's widely diverse portfolio of interests—in the way that only businesswomen are. Melting into a strategic corporate merger, they predicted no bored room in their future as long as they had assets to share.

Slipping aside silken defenses. Ellen acted as mentor and boldly showed Marsha just what the corporate body liked and just how to do it . . .

Marsha watched . . . and responded, her fingers eagerly exploring her own satiny smoothness. Then, leaning forward, she kissed her partner's softly swollen seat of power.

Later, Ellen gently invaded her colleague's sweet vault, making a tender offer that smacked of mutual profitability. No longer buried in their work, they became deeply immersed in play.
